WHAT TO EXPECT

- Are you ready to dive into the world of data innovation and design the next generation of digital products? We are looking for someone like you who has the passion and expertise to drive our mission of developing highly scalable solutions for the automated processing and analysis of huge amounts of data.
- If you are ready to push the boundaries of what is possible, master the latest technologies such as Azure and AWS and take a clean code approach, then you have come to the right place.
- Be part of our dynamic team where your ideas count, and innovation is our top priority. Get ready to develop your skills in an environment that focuses on continuous development and collaboration. We look forward to shaping the future of data management together with you!

YOUR TASKS

- Designing, building and maintaining robust Continuous Integration and Continuous Deployment (CI/CD) pipelines for leading automotive manufacturers
- Consulting colleagues and customers on CI/CD topics and deployment infrastructure
- Optimizing and managing cloud services
- Introducing new tools to improve software development and deployment processes
- Setting up monitoring, alerting and logging systems to enhance performance and reliability
- Implement security best practices, including patch management and vulnerability assessments

YOUR PROFILE

- Experience with a complex and mature Git branching model
- Experience with CI/CD pipelines based on GitHub Actions, Docker and Kubernetes
- Familiarity with cloud platforms (e.g. AWS, Azure)
- Experience with designing and managing ETL pipelines. Familiarity with Azure Databricks is a plus
- Experience with Python, Linux Shells, Windows Batch and/or PowerShell
- Basic understanding of common network protocols (e.g. SSH, HTTPS) and networking concepts (e.g. DNS, load balancing, firewalls)
- Good communication skills (also in English, German is a plus)
- Interest in the automotive industry is an advantage
